BRECKINRIDGE STILL ON THE TRACK .- The ru mots that Breckinridge, seeing the hopelessness the contest in which he is engaged, wadout to decline, are contradicted by his manigers. They are not inclined to let him off yet although he sees that the contest is hopeless and it will be certain political death for him long er to remain on the track, they still persist in hol or to him, in hopes that he may divert the otes of some States from Douglas to Lincols ov. Stevens, Chairman of the Breckinridge & ane National Executive Committee, received n the 16th, a letter from Mr. Breckinridge. "c such a character as to warrant him in givin an emphatic contradiction to all rumors of ha esire to be relieved from his position as a car lidate for the Presidency."

No Fesion in Virginia.—The Democrats of Jirginia, have wisely determined to refuse an grangements with the Secessionists, and have nominated a full Douglas electoral ticket. This is the correct and democratic policy. No ai more and be made between partic holding such opposite views, without a sacrifice and surrender of principle. Mr. Douglais firmly and unchangeably planted on the grea principle of non-intervention, and desires no a iliation with any party holding the heresy tha Congress has the right to dictate to the people of the territories, or prevent their establishing such local institutions as to them seem best.-His party friends therefore act properly in rerusing to co-operate with the secessionists and iriends of Congressional interference.

ARKANSAS.—It now seems to be conclusively settled that Rector (Ind. Dem.) has been electal Governor of Arkansas, and that T. C. Hindman has been defeated for Congress. It wil e remembered that Hindman headed the anti-Douglas delegation to the National Convention

Wisconsin.-The feeling in favor of Dougla on Wisconsin is described as exceeding any sing ever known in that State. Soon after ngaging in the service of his country, he was given the charge of a small fleet of boats, which vere sent up the Great Miami river, ladence vith previsions destined for the use of the roops at Fort Wayne. It was an arduous tasl or one so young and inexperienced as he to undertake. But fired with a love to discharge his duties well, and supported by an indomitable will and energy, he faithfully discharged the duies of his trust. He ascended the Great Miami is far as he could with his transports, where shipped and carried across the country, by land to the St. Mary's where they were again placed n boats, to descend the river to Fort Wayne. As he approached the latter place he did so with a great degree of caution. Governor Morchead's tribute to the Union his reference to the resources and power of the country and its destiny, if it remained united. and his denunciations of sectionalism, North and South, were eloquent and impressive.-His speech throughout was patriotic, conservative and statesmanlike. We have given this extended notice of the

the antagonistic parties, and this appreciation of their worth made them the most appropriate speech of Governor Morehead to show how a Southern man talks. His personal interests are all with the South. His sympathies, too, are naturally there. Yet he loves the Union beyond all, and desires its perpetuation. In this spirit and with such views he warns the country of the dangers of parties based upon geograpical lines and sectional issues. He made no distinction between the sectionalists of the North and South, but denounced each and both as encmies to the Union.

We regret that we have not space for the interesting incidents that Governor Morehead related of Henry Clay at the close of his Senator rial career, in which he rose superior to the tranmels of party, and united with his former political enemies in a common effort to adopt being an active Abolitionist.
